Grant Study Reports

2026- Ignatian Pedagogy and Science Education, co-authored with Desirée Forsythe, SCU Biology.

Funded by a $22,000 grant from the Santa Clara University Whitham Grant Program, this project studies the use of the Ignatian Pedagogical Paradigm and practices in science education at SCU and other Jesuit institutions in California through interviews and focus groups with students and faculty.

2022 Beyond ‘Bad Apples’: Understanding Clergy Perpetrated Sexual Abuse as a Structural Phenomenon and Cultivating Strategies for Change (co-authored with Julie Hanlon Rubio, JST). www.scu.edu

Funded by a $40,000 grant from Fordham University, this book-length report presents findings from a multi-year study of clericalism and clergy sexual abuse. Bridging sociological, theological, and psychological research with results from an original survey of 300 Catholic clergy and professional lay ministers, this report assesses how clericalism, as a structure of power, contributes to the perdurance of sexual abuse in the Catholic Church.

Works in Progress

“The Difference Redemption Makes? Revisiting Magisterial Arguments Against Ordaining Women to the Priesthood” (journal article in progress).

Living Worship: Liturgy, Flourishing, Justice, co-authored with Laura Nichols, SCU Sociology

Begun in 2008-2010, while I served as Director of Worship for St. Mary Catholic Church in Evansville, IN, and as a liturgical consultant for the Diocese of Evansville, Living Worship employs narrative analysis of the liturgical life of St. Mary as the basis for constructing a practical liturgical theology of the Eucharist that advances the aims of Sacrosanctum Concilium for the contemporary Roman Catholic Church.
