The Open-Faith Salon: Moving from Judgment to Compassion

This will be an evening of shared stories and practices, spiritual edification and dialogue, seeking to build bridges of understanding made up of shared values and aspirations. Speakers Rabbi Dorothy Richman (Jewish), Laura Magnani (Quaker) and Ameena Jandali (Muslim) will share how their different faith traditions inform their work with people too often dismissed as "other" and how we might increase compassion through self-reflection, engaged spiritual practice, and social action. Event is free, with a suggested donation of $5-$20.

Sunday, September 10, 2017 | 7pm-9pm | Chochmat HaLev, 2215 Prince St., Berkeley

Who Cares for the Caregiver; Who Ministers to the Minister?

The School of Applied Theology invites everyone seeking a holistic Sabbath experience to enroll for the first of its 2017 course offerings. Bede Healey, OSB Cam, Ph.D., will lead an exploration of the issues of human needs and woundedness. Utilizing a relational approach, he will examine the interdependency of self and others, highlighting the creative potential for growth, wisdom and peace. Cost: $80.00.
