SCU Teaching Opportunity for JST Students

"ELSJ 22: Solidarity with the Community" is a 2-unit, P/NP non-departmental Arts & Sciences seminar. The course itself involves themes of social justice, civic engagement, deepening perspectives, and vocational discernment. Also, enrolled undergraduate students are required to engage in community-based learning in the local community as part of the course experience. Ideally, the instructor would have some background with community-based learning pedagogy.

This teaching opportunity is posted on SCU's careers page in "faculty openings":

COMMUNITY EVENTS

Addressing Economic Inequality in the Era of Pope Francis

Come prepared to have your world vision expanded as Father Massaro shares with us on these vital questions: Where do we observe inequality? Locally and worldwide, past and present? What drives inequality? What are its consequences? How do we measure inequality? How may we address or even reduce it? How does our current pope, Pope Francis, challenge us to address this issue?

Thursday, March 2 | 7-8:30pm | The Gathering Space - Dominican Sisters Center 1520 Grand Avenue, San Rafael

The World Will Be Saved By Beauty

Meet Dorothy Day's youngest granddaughter, Kate Hennessy as she shares the memories of her life with her grandmother, the founder of the Catholic Worker Movement. Kate will be sharing her memories as well as signing her new book, "The World Will Be Saved By Beauty." Two dozen copies of her book will be available for purchase at the event.
