The Rise of the "Nones": Exploring the Realities of Young People and Their Relationships with the Church

Data from Pew Research, CARA, and the Study of Youth and Religion all suggest that young people are disaffiliating from the Church in large numbers. Some studies suggest that as many as 50% of Millennials describe themselves as "none" when asked about religious affiliation. In this workshop with presenter John Rinaldo, D. Min., JST Field Education Supervisor, we'll explore what the data is actually suggesting, and, more importantly, how the Church might respond to the changing mindsets of youth and young adults. RSVP to Mary Beth Lamb at melamb@scu.edu.

Wednesday, April 4 | 10am-12pm | JST 216
