Liturgy News

- Liturgical ministers are still needed, especially sacristans, acolytes, and bread bakers. Please email jstliturgy@scu.edu to sign up.
- Help is needed with Music Ministry - email Maggie Warner, music coordinator at mwarner@scu.edu
- Thursday evening liturgies will alternate between mass with preaching by our Jesuit deacons and liturgies with lay preaching and presiding.

Practicing Ignatian Spiritual Discernment in Light of Natural Science

How might insights from the natural sciences contribute to this freeing, spiritual experience? How might Christian Spirituality make a contribution to future natural science research? Let's explore this together. Presentation by Nancy Wiens, Ph.D.

Retreat for JST Lay Students: Saturday, October 8th at JST, 9:15 a.m.-5 p.m.

The focus of the retreat will involve praying with the question, "What does God want for the lay students at JST?" The day will provide the opportunity for community building and students getting to know one another. Lunch is included! This retreat is open to all JST lay students in any of the degree programs. If interested in attending please contact Deborah Ross (dross@scu.edu) ASAP!

The Power to Change: Neuroscience for Abundant Living

Rev. Roy Pereira, a Jesuit from India and visiting scholar, brings his scientific training to bear on his priestly ministry and his talks on abundant living to the general public. His presentations make complex concepts easy through the use of the piano, music and meditation. Heart combines with the head as his Eastern sensibility bears on his Western learning.

Tuesday, October 6 | 6:45pm | JST Chapel
