

Responsibility Requires Action

living life with responsibility every day

Responsibility is the active side of morality: doing what I should do, doing what I say I will do, doing what is best for everybody; especially doing the one thing I should be doing right now.

Change Requires Effort

living life with dignity and moderation

Change is possible. Change requires three things; a vision, a plan, and effort. It requires changing bad habits to good habits. It requires effort even when I don't feel like working. It requires taking one step at a time.

Leadership Requires Engagement

engaging life fully for the common good

Leaders develop and dedicate their talents to promote the common good. This is where they choose to spend their time and effort. Leadership requires positive civic engagement. It is making sure that the communities I am part of are better because I am in them. And that I am better because of the communities I choose to be part of.

Justice Requires Restraint

living out justice for all people and the earth

There are things I cannot say or do to myself, any other person, or the planet because justice demands it. The actions I take and the decisions I make must respect the rights of all.

Courage Requires Fortitude

living with courage and commitment

Courage is risk for a reason, not risk for a thrill; courage requires I moderate my impulses and emotions. Courage leads me to consider the heroic journey in which people live for purposes bigger than themselves and their wants and needs.

Integrity Requires Wholeness

living out integrity and reflective justice

Integrity requires that the way I live my life is whole, entire, undivided, sound, coherent and principled. Integrity moves me to do difficult and new things not just easy and accustomed things.
