Lesson Plan for Quarter 4 Week 1 Day 1

PREPARE

1. Background knowledge necessary for today’s reading

For today’s selection teachers should discuss the following before reading the selection:

Discuss the fact that aggressive economic growth led to world prominence for several nations in East and Southeast Asia. The nations known as the Asian tigers combined industrialization, trade, finance, and excellent location to achieve remarkable economic growth as will be discussed in this chapter. Taiwan, a former territory of China, cautiously tried for closer links with the mainland during the time period discussed in this chapter. The British Colony of Hong Kong was returned to China in 1997. Troubling issues such as individual rights and ethnic diversity – both of which will be covered over the next two days, offset Singapore’s prosperity. As students will learn tomorrow, Korea’s divided nation – a communist totalitarian state in the north and capitalist powerhouse in the south – created problems in that land.

Teachers should use www.worldatlas.com or the reference section in the text to locate the following:

- Japan
- Taiwan
- South Korea
- Singapore
- North Korea
- Hong Kong

Today’s objective: From Revolution to Reform in China

1. Students will specify how Hong Kong and Taiwan are linked to China.
2. Word Wall – Used for Days 1 and 2 in week 1 of quarter 4

Introduce 8 important, useful words/concepts/people from today’s reading

READ

3. Review the Timeline

Green book: p. 459
Red book: pp. 856-857

4. Read today’s story selection: World History: Connections to Today

The Asian Tigers
Section: 17-3; 34-3
Green book: pp. 469-472 stop at The Two Koreas
Red book: pp. 868-870 stop at The Two Koreas

Students should answer the following as they read:

1. How are Taiwan and Hong Kong linked to China?
2. Why are the Asian Tigers an economic success story?

RESPOND

5. Add to the Timeline

If the instructor developed his/her own timeline, please add to it from today’s reading.
EXPLORE

6. Explore today’s lecture with visual and oral language activities

One activity:
Over the next two days of reading, and then finalizing the project on Wednesday, divide the class into four groups and assign each group one of the Asian tigers: Hong Kong, Taiwan, Singapore, and South Korea. As students read over the next two days, have them gather information for a chart on the assigned Asian tigers. Explain that students should include data for these six headings:

1. Traditions and Religion
2. Relations with China
3. Relations with other nations
4. Government
5. Economy
6. Troubling Issues

On Day 3 of week 1 of quarter 3, have each group present its “tiger” to the class. Each group should have a visual (a chart for example) to help with the presentation.

EXTEND

7. Prompt every student to write a short product tied to today’s reading

Writing prompt: Writing prompt: After reading today’s selection, teachers may want to introduce the writing prompt by discussing Singapore’s rulers claim that the government needed to restrict individual freedom in order to achieve economic prosperity for their country. Teachers should discuss what this means and may even share an opinion on can developing nations promote economic growth without sacrificing political freedom. Upon finishing the discussion, have each student write his or her opinion to whether or not a developing nation can promote economic growth without sacrificing political freedom.

8. Close with a short summary

Extend the reading to the student’s lives or to the world.

PREPARE

1. Background knowledge necessary for today’s reading

Today’s lesson is the culmination of the group work over the last two days. Teachers should allow 10 minutes (or more if time allows) for each group to present the information gathered from the reading and outside sources. At the end of the presentations, teachers should instruct students to answer the questions listed below.

1. Why have these states been so successful in their economic growth?
2. Is their prosperity continuing today?
3. What economic setbacks has the nation faced recently?
4. What effects does the nation’s economic situation have on the other three nations, and on the world?

PREPARE

1. Background knowledge necessary for today’s reading

For today’s selection teachers should insure the following from yesterday’s introduction is clear before reading the selection:

Introduce the fact that following WWII the nations of Southeast Asia (teachers may want to point out location on a map) struggled to free themselves from colonial rule. The Cold War, ethnic conflicts, dictatorial governments, and other problems also plagued them. After freeing itself of French rule, Vietnam became a major battleground of the Cold War. Tomorrow, students will read about the Pacific Rim countries’ growing industry and vital component to global economy.

Depending on the make up of the class and level, teachers may want to further introduce the Vietnam War and its effect on the United States in particular. More specifically, teachers may want to talk about the different opinions of the war among the American people.

Today’s objective: Southeast Asia and the Pacific Rim

1. Students will identify the problems facing the developing nations of Southeast Asia after World War II.
2. Students will explain why Vietnam plunged into decades of war.

2. Word Wall – Used for Days 3 and 4 in week 1 of quarter 4

3. Students will show an understanding of the Middle East region.

PREPARE

1. Background knowledge necessary for today’s reading

Today, students will prepare for the next four days of reading by exploring the Middle East region. Students should be able to identify the region with respect to the world, and then each nation that makes up the region. The entire day will be dedicated to the following map exercise. In addition, teachers should determine how in-depth is appropriate for the class – including the current state of affairs in the Middle East.

Suggested Activity: The following suggestion uses www.worldatlas.com. Teachers may want to reprint some of the map suggestions prior to class time for efficiency sake. Students will still need to use the site. If that is not possible, use the printed maps from the site and use the reference section of the text (or any reference material available to the class). If computer space is limited, this suggested lesson could be done in groups.

Students should go to www.worldatlas.com
Click on Middle East
Click on Middle East again
go to right hand bar and click on Middle East (outline) here (teachers may want tot reproduce this map prior to class)

Once this is complete, have each student (or group) pick 3 countries and find the following for each nation:

   Capital City?
   Language(s)?
   How many hours ahead of the city you live in is the nation?

Lesson Plan for Quarter 4 Week 3 Day 2

Today’s objective: Forces Shaping the Modern Middle East
4. Students will be introduced to the chapter which discusses South Asia and the Middle East from after WWII to the present

PREPARE

1. Background knowledge necessary for today’s reading

Teachers should share the following with the class:

Diversity and nationalism blocked the Pan-Arab dream of a united Arab state. Control of water and oil resources has a major impact on the countries of the Middle East (should refer to maps from yesterday). Ethnic and religious diversity, the influence of western cultures, and the Islamic revival are some of the forces shaping the Middle East today. Teachers should discuss the current state of the Middle East at this point if appropriate to the level of the class. Teachers should help students identify the various forces that are shaping the Middle East today.

2. Word Wall – Used for Days 2, 3, 4, and 5 in week 3 of quarter 4

Introduce 8 important, useful words/concepts/people from today’s reading

   Teachers should introduce the chart that will be filled in over the next four days as the read section 2 of the chapter. Teacher may want to discuss each column heading specifically depending on class skill and level.

   Teachers will want to highlight that three forces shape the modern Middle East – nationalism, religious and cultural diversity, and access to resources such as oil and water. As the student reads over the next 4 days, have them fill in the chart with examples of each force.

1. Students will identify the resources that have had a powerful impact on the region.

PREPARE

1. Background knowledge necessary for today’s reading

Teachers should share the following with the class:

To satisfy their need for fresh water, many Middle Eastern countries have developed desalinization plants that remove salt from sea water. These plants use a variety of scientific processes, the most simple of which is distillation. In the process, salt water is boiled, and the resulting steam is collected and condensed into desalinized water. In other methods, such as electro-dialysis and reverse osmosis, salt water is passed through special membranes that separate the salts and the water. Teachers can further supplement depending on the nature of the class.

Today’s objective: East Asia and Southeast Asia (1945-Present)
1. Students will locate Turkey, Egypt, and Iran on a world map.
2. Students will turn subheadings into questions to be answered over week 4 of the quarter.

PREPARE

1. Background knowledge necessary for today's reading

Today, students will prepare for the next two days of reading by exploring the nations of Turkey, Egypt, and Iran. In addition, teachers should share with students that in the late 1900s, Turkey struggled to build a stable government, cope with modernization and social upheaval, and settle conflicts with Kurds and Greek Cypriots. Egypt changed policies several times in the drive for modernization. Students will learn in Iran at this time, a revolution toppled the government of the shah and replaced it with an Islamic republic.

Suggested Activity: The following suggestion uses www.worldatlas.com.

Students should go to www.worldatlas.com
- Click on Middle East
- Click on Middle East again
  - Students should find Turkey, Iran, and Egypt
Once this is complete, have each student (or group) pick find the following for each nation:
   Capital City?
   Language(s)?
   How many hours ahead of the city you live in is the nation?

Once this activity is complete, have each student turn the subheading for section 18-3, 18-4 in the green book and 35-3, 35-4 in the red book into question that will be answered over the next 4 days of reading.

Today’s objective: The Middle East and the World
1. Students will explain why the Arab-Israeli conflict was difficult to resolve.
2. Students will identify the forces that plunged Lebanon into civil war.

PREPARE

1. Background knowledge necessary for today’s reading

Teachers should share the following with the class:

Teachers should locate Lebanon and the Persian Gulf on a map –either in the reference section of the text or some other source such as www.worldatlas.com.

After which, teachers should introduce the chapter by telling the class that after four wars, many acts of terrorism, and a popular uprising, Israel, the PLO, and several Arab states began resolving their differences in the 1990s. In Lebanon, conflict between the Muslims and the Christians erupted in civil war. Some of the factors that led to the warfare in the Persian Gulf region include border disputes, oil wealth, and ambitious rulers.

Lesson Plan for Quarter 4 Week 4 Day 5

Today’s objective: The Middle East and the World
1. Students will explain why the Persian Gulf became a battlefield.

Standards: 10.4.1-4
10.10.1-3
10.11 8

PREPARE

1. Background knowledge necessary for today’s reading

Teachers should review and check for understanding of the following with the class:

Teachers should locate Lebanon and the Persian Gulf on a map –either in the reference section of the text or some other source such as www.worldatlas.com.

After which, teachers should introduce the chapter by telling the class that after four wars, many acts of terrorism, and a popular uprising, Israel, the PLO, and several Arab states began resolving their differences in the 1990s. In Lebanon, conflict between the Muslims and the Christians erupted in civil war. Some of the factors that led to the warfare in the Persian Gulf region include border disputes, oil wealth, and ambitious rulers.

2. Word Wall – Used for Days 4 and 5 in week 4 of quarter 4

Today’s objective: Africa (1945-Present)
  4. Students will locate the continent of Africa on the map and the nations that make it up.
  5. Students will be introduced to Africa since WWII and begin to identify the events that influenced change sin 1945 via the timeline in the text.

PREPARE

1. Background knowledge necessary for today’s reading

Today, students will prepare for the next four days of reading by exploring the continent of Africa and the nations that make up Africa. In addition, teachers should share with students that many people hoped that independence would bring democratic governments, but many African nations landed military regimes and one-party states. As with others countries, the nations of Africa had problems/struggles with the transition from traditional ways to modern influences.

Suggested Activity: The following suggestion uses www.worldatlas.com.
Students should go to www.worldatlas.com
  Click on Africa
  Click on Africa again
  Teachers should find and lead a discussion on South Africa, Kenya, Liberia, Ghana, Nigeria. Teachers should also discuss the size of Africa (2nd largest continent, etc.) with the class.
  Then, students should chose 3 countries to find the following information:
    Capital City?
    Language(s)?

Once complete, teachers should introduce the timelines in the text:

Lesson Plan for Quarter 4 Week 5 Day 2

Today’s objective: Africa (1945-Present)
1. Students will explain how African Nations won independence.
2. Students will describe how the colonial legacy hampered development.

PREPARE

1. Background knowledge necessary for today’s reading

Teachers should share with students that after WWII, a tide of nationalism swept through Africa – leading to independence for many of the African nations. The pattern of dependence resulting from the colonialism of the past made it difficult for most nations to build strong economies and stable political systems. In the years after independence, African leaders struggled to encourage national unity and to modernize their nations. Teachers may want to extend on colonialism depending on the make-up of the class.

Teachers may want to review yesterday’s activity:

Today’s objective: Africa (1945-Present)

- 8. Students will locate South Africa on a world map to prepare for this week’s readings and discussions.
- 9. Students will be introduced to South Africa.

PREPARE

1. Background knowledge necessary for today’s reading

Teachers should introduce this week’s reading selections by discussing and locating South Africa with the class. Teachers should highlight that under apartheid (define for the class) all South Africans were classified by race. Whites were in control – and the lives of non-whites were restricted. The pressure to end apartheid came from many fronts – both within South Africa as well as other nations. In 1994, Nelson Mandela and F.W. de Klerk worked to move the nation from white rule to majority rule. In Angola and Mozambique, the struggle for power and the complicated interests of the Cold War resulted in years of war in those nations.
Suggested Activity: The following suggestion uses www.worldatlas.com.
Students should go to www.worldatlas.com
   - Click on Africa
   - Click on Africa again
   - Locate South Africa in relation to Africa
   - Locate, Discuss and find facts by clicking on the following:
     - South Africa
     - Mozambique
     - Namibia
     - Angola
   Then, students should find the following information on each of the countries from above:
     - Capital City?
     - Language(s)?
     - Official Name?
     - Current time and date?

Once complete, teachers should review the timelines in the text:
   - Green book: p. 507

Second Activity: Teachers should introduce the concepts and people suggested in the Word Wall activity at this point

Unit 4/8 The World Today

Green book: Chapter 20: Latin America (1945-Present)
Red book: Chapter 37: Latin America (1945-Present)

Today’s objective: East Asia and Southeast Asia (1945-Present)

10. Students will locate Latin America on a world map.
11. Students will turn subheadings into questions to be answered over week 8 of quarter 4.

PREPARE

1. Background knowledge necessary for today's reading

Today, students will prepare for the next three days of reading by exploring Latin America. In addition, teachers should discuss that Latin America’s development is influenced by geography, culture, social patterns, and economic conditions. Teachers should explain the nations and regions that make up Latin America. Teachers may want to introduce the fact that Latin America reaches from Mexico through Central America, across to the Caribbean, and down through South America.

Suggested Activity: The following suggestion uses www.worldatlas.com. Students should go to www.worldatlas.com

Identify and find the following:
- Mexico
- Caribbean
- Central America
- South America
Once this is complete, have each student (or group) find the following for each nation(s) assigned by the teacher in each of the four regions.
- Capital City?
- Language(s)?
- How many hours ahead of the city you live in is the nation?

Second Activity: Once this activity is complete, have each student turn the subheading for section 20-1 in the green book and 37-1 in the red book into question form – these questions will be answered over the next 3 days of reading.

2. Word Wall – not offered today.

3. Review the Timeline

Green book: p. 533
Red book: pp. 932-933

4. Read today’s story selection: World History: Connections to Today

6. Explore today’s lecture with visual and oral language activities

One activity: Not offered today. Please see writing prompt.

7. Prompt every student to write a short product tied to today’s reading

Writing prompt: After students turn subheadings into questions, teachers should have each student should write a paragraph predicting what the next section will cover and discuss.

8. Close with a short summary

Extend the reading to the student’s lives or to the world.
Lesson Plan for Quarter 4 Week 8 Day 2

Today’s objective: Forces Shaping Modern Latin America

5. Students will identify the conditions that contributed to unrest in Latin America.

PREPARE

1. Background knowledge necessary for today’s reading

Teachers should reinforce the following with the class:

Teachers should discuss that Latin America’s development is influenced by geography, culture, social patterns, and economic conditions. Teachers should explain the nations and regions that make up Latin America. Teachers may want to introduce the fact that Latin America reaches from Mexico through Central America, across to the Caribbean, and down through South America.

Teachers can add that social inequality, population growth, poverty, and rapid urbanization all contributed to unrest in Latin America. Many ideologies competed for power during the early years, and continue today to secure control of various governments. To encourage economic growth, governments encouraged economic nationalism and expanding agriculture, urbanization, competing political groups, religious movements, and the struggles of individuals have all influenced social change in the regions.

EXPLORE

6. Explore today’s lecture with visual and oral language activities
The suggested activity is to be used for days 2, 3, and 4 of week 8.

One activity: As each student reads the section over the next three days, each student should gather evidence to support or challenge the following generalizations:

1. Most people in Latin America share a common heritage and the same culture.
2. Class structure is a significant influence on the lives of most Latin Americans.
3. Democracy has had a troubled history in Latin America.
4. Economic Development has had mixed success.
5. Religious leaders play a significant role in Latin American politics.
6. The role of women has remained unchanged in this century.

The evidence obtained will be used in the final writing prompt for the week.
EXTEND

7. Prompt every student to write a short product tied to today’s reading

One activity: As each student reads the section over the next three days, each student should gather evidence to support or challenge the following generalizations:

a. Most people in Latin America share a common heritage and the same culture.
b. Class structure is a significant influence on the lives of most Latin Americans.
c. Democracy has had a troubled history in Latin America.
d. Economic Development has had mixed success.
e. Religious leaders play a significant role in Latin American politics.
f. The role of women has remained unchanged in this century.

The evidence obtained will be used in the final writing prompt for the week.
7. Prompt every student to write a short product tied to today’s reading

Writing prompt: Even today, the gap between rich and poor has fed to much unrest in Latin America – much as it has from 1945. Each student should write in paragraph form how a country can reduce poverty without threatening its economic stability.

Lesson Plan for Quarter 4 Week 8 Day 4

Today’s objective: Forces Shaping Modern Latin America

1. Students will explain how governments tried to promote economic development.
2. Students will specify the forces that have contributed to social change in Latin America.

PREPARE

1. Background knowledge necessary for today’s reading

Teachers should reinforce the following with the class:

Teachers should discuss that Latin America’s development is influenced by geography, culture, social patterns, and economic conditions. Teachers should explain the nations and regions that make up Latin America. Teachers may want to introduce the fact that Latin America reaches from Mexico through Central America, across to the Caribbean, and down through South America.

Teachers can add that social inequality, population growth, poverty, and rapid urbanization all contributed to unrest in Latin America. Many ideologies competed for power during the early years, and continue today to secure control of various governments. To encourage economic growth, governments encouraged economic nationalism and expanding agriculture. Urbanization, competing political groups, religious movements, and the struggles of individuals have all influenced social change in the regions.

13. Students will describe the impact of the Cuban Revolution
14. Students will identify Fidel Castro and his relationship to Cuba.

PREPARE

1. Background knowledge necessary for today’s reading

Teachers should preview the next two days of reading by introducing Fidel Castro, locating countries to be read about, and reviewing the word wall suggestions to class. Teachers may want to be brief in discussing Fidel Castro, or go more in depth depending on the make-up of the class. Teachers may want to introduce the man as reportedly born in 1926 and one that rose to power despite several early failings. He was a student leader and lawyer that eventually became the autocratic leader of Cuba in 1959. Teachers may want to introduce his relationship with the Soviet Union and United States at this time also – and may want to discuss the Bay of Pigs Invasion and the Cuban Missile Crisis if time permits. Again, if appropriate, teachers may want to discuss that with the fall of the Soviet Union in 1991, Cuba hit a rough economic period because of the billions of dollars previously given in Soviet aid.

PREPARE

1. Background knowledge necessary for today’s reading

Teachers should preview the next two days of reading by insuring student understanding of democracy. Students should realize that in recent decades, Mexico has experienced democratic reforms and economic growth. In Central America, people fought the ruling elite of the military, business, and landowning interests. As the oppressed people fought for change, there were many lives lost and, as one might expect, difficulty moving toward democracy - for example Haiti.

Today’s lesson revolves around primary sources to give the student a perspective of democracy from someone living during the time. Teachers may want to introduce the suggested word wall.

Today’s objective: Introducing Argentina

15. Students will locate Argentina and learn about the states that make up Argentina.
16. Students will write a brief description of Argentina.

PREPARE

1. Background knowledge necessary for today’s reading

Teachers should share with the class that this week will finish up the chapter on Latin America. The emphasis will be on Argentina and Brazil. To this end, there will be two days of the week dedicated to map exercises for each. Students will learn about the states/provinces/cities that make up Argentina and Brazil. Today’s lesson will start with Argentina and the entire lesson is contained in the following. The focus, reading, visual, and writing prompt are as follows:

Teachers need to print out the outline map of Argentina prior to class for distribution and use in this lesson. This map can be found at www.worldatlas.com by following the links to Argentina, and then clicking on outline map.
